B1. You are going to take a small group of visitors for a walk round Bath lasting approximately one hour. They have already visited the Roman Baths and the Abbey. Indicate the route you would take, the stops which you would make, and the main points you would wish to relate at each stop.

OR

B2. You are preparing a group for a visit to Oxford and you want to explain the development of the university from the 12th century to the present day. Outline the points which you would want to make.

OR

B3. You are taking a group by coach to Stratford upon Avon. Indicate what you would tell the group about the life and work of William Shakespeare, relating it to what they will see in Stratford, in the 5-10 minutes before arriving.

Now turn to SECTION C

SECTION C (20%)

You MUST attempt this question. Recommended time 30 minutes

You have been asked to meet a party of 40 Americans from a liner at the Cruise terminal in Dover at 10 a.m. You are to take them to Canterbury, where you will park in the coach park, walk them into the town, and take them to the Cathedral for a visit. Your visit to the Cathedral is booked for 11.30am and lunch is booked for 1pm at a restaurant close to the Cathedral. You will then take them on to their central London hotel intending to arrive between 4 and 5 p.m. You have a 48 seater coach, with toilet, booked from the Go Anywhere Coach Company.

You meet the group as requested with the coach. However, the group have such a lot of luggage that it proves quite impossible to load all of the luggage into the lockers under the coach. Despite his best efforts the driver is still left with at least six large suitcases which he cannot get into the luggage lockers.

Eventually, having resolved the difficulty with the suitcases, you leave Dover some 30 minutes later than you intended. Arriving in Canterbury you walk your group into town from the coach park. On the walk into town one person in your group is hit by a motor car. The car pulled away sharply striking your passenger a glancing blow on the arm. The car roars off without stopping. Your passenger was walking on the edge of the pavement and neither you nor the passenger are in anyway to blame for the accident. The passenger does not appear to be seriously injured, but is clearly shaken by the experience and has some pain in the arm which was hit.

You leave Canterbury and you are on the M2 making for London when you become seriously concerned about the behaviour of your driver who does not appear to be at all well.

Identify the various issues raised in the above passage. In each case consider a variety of strategies you might adopt to resolve these problems. For each strategy you suggest, outline the possible consequences which might follow and how they will impact on your strategy for dealing with the next issue. Recommend your preferred course of action with reasons and what you would hope to achieve.
